

Sinclair Broadcasting is forcing their stations to air an obviously partisan and unbalanced documentary without any balancing content that is blatantly political in nature, presenting one candidate for president, John Kerry, in an extremely negative light. This should be appearing on cable or a pay per view, not on the public airways which are reserved to serve the public interest. They are preempting local coverage at a time, two weeks prior to a national election. when we need local broadcasting that addresses the needs and informs the local communities that their stations serve.

We need to reduce the impact of individual media companies by reducing their abilities to consolidate into broadcasting behemoths.
